

National Book Lovers Day- 2024

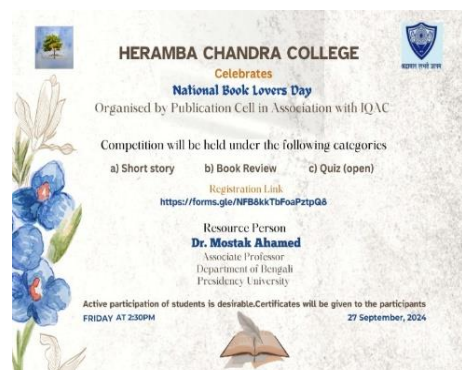

Heramba Chandra College observed National Book Lovers Day on 27 November 2024. The programme was organised by the Publication Cell of the College. We inaugurated the programme by a song of our student Abhirup Biswas and watering the tree. After the speech of Convener Our Principal tell a remarkable key note about the value of reading habits. Dr. Mostak Ahmed, Associate professor of Presidency University and an eminent writer, enriched us telling “Why do we not read books?”. The students and faculty enthusiastically interacted with him in the open session after his speech. The Cell organised Three type of Competition- 1. Short Story Writing, 2. Book-Review on selected Bengali and English books and 3. Open Quiz. The participants expressed their thoughts while presenting short story and critique of the selected books. The response of the audience was overwhelming. There were 67 students and staff present in the audience.
