The opening address by the convener emphasized the

importance of sustainable development in the context of contemporary economic challenges. The Chief Guest highlighted the role of research and academia in shaping policies for sustainable economic growth. The seminar included panel discussions and paper presentations by scholars and researchers from various academic institutions. The presentations covered a wide range of topics related to sustainable development economics, including environmental sustainability, social equity, and economic growth. Each session was followed by a question-answer session, encouraging lively discussions and exchange of ideas. The abstracts have been compiled and published as a resource for future reference. We are also trying to publish the seminar papers in edited book format. This initiative will aim to contribute to the academic discourse on sustainable development economics.

The seminar was a grand success as 22 participants from different colleges and institutions have presented their papers in four technical sessions spread around two days.

This was the first trilingual seminar focusing on tribal issues in Kolkata. More than 41 participants from various universities and colleges all over India presented their papers and more than 300 participants registered for this international seminar. It was organized keeping in mind the duty of the teaching fraternity to disseminate among the students a proper knowledge of tribal movements and culture since our idea of India and Indian history is incomplete without proper understanding of tribal culture and tribal movements. It is fitting that the seminar is being organized when the nation is celebrating the 75th year of independence. The seminar comprised multiple sessions and panel discussions covering diverse aspects of tribal culture, history, and movements. Scholars presented research papers on topics ranging from traditional tribal practices to the socio-economic impact of tribal movements. Interactive panel discussions allowed for cross-cultural comparisons and the sharing of global perspectives on indigenous issues. One of the seminar's highlights was the active participation of international scholars and experts who shared their experiences and research findings on tribal cultures and movements worldwide. This international collaboration enriched the discussions and fostered a global understanding of indigenous issues. The papers presented during the seminar will be compiled and published as an edited book. This compilation will aim to serve as a valuable resource spectacular dance drama performance on the final day. The presentation deconstructed popular fairy tales, weaving in elements of gender studies to impart valuable lessons. The script challenged stereotypes and offered a fresh perspective on traditional narratives. The college auditorium witnessed a packed audience, including students, faculty, and other enthusiasts. More than 100 individuals enjoyed the final presentation of the workshop, applauding the efforts of the participants and the creative vision behind the dance drama. Approximately 35 participants actively worked on stage, showcasing their newly acquired skills and talents. The commitment and dedication of each participant were evident in the seamless execution of the performance. The 7-day Dance Drama Workshop organized by the Department of Bengali and English was an absolute success, achieving its objective of providing students with a holistic experience in theatre and performance arts. Beyond the acquisition of skills, the workshop encouraged creative thinking, collaboration, and a deeper understanding of societal issues, as evident in the thought-provoking final presentation. We extend our gratitude to the participants for their enthusiastic involvement, the faculty members for their guidance, and the audience for their overwhelming support. Such initiatives contribute significantly to the cultural and artistic vibrancy of our academic community.

Prof., Dept. of Bengali, Heramba Chandra College On the 5th of April 2024 our college celebrated International Women's Day with a series of events aimed at fostering awareness and dialogue on gender-related issues. The day was marked by a Film Show, a debate competition, and a seminar on the controversial topic, 'Men are the Custodians of Women's Destiny.' To commemorate this special event, Heramba Chandra College organized a Film Show featuring two thought-provoking short films addressing gender discrimination. The films were carefully chosen to stimulate diverse opinions and perspectives.

					Following the screening, a debate competition was held where both male and female participants actively expressed their views for or against the topic. The event successfully created a platform for students and teachers to engage in a meaningful dialogue on gender roles and responsibilities. The highlight of the celebration was a seminar focusing on the controversial topic of ‘Men are the Custodians of Women’s Destiny.’ The seminar aimed to provide a space for open discussions and in-depth analysis of societal norms and expectations. Students and teachers actively participated, sharing their opinions and raising thought-provoking questions that paved the way for a new narrative. The primary objective of campus sensitization was effectively achieved through this successful program. By providing a platform for open dialogue, the event contributed to raising awareness about gender discrimination, challenging stereotypes, and promoting a more inclusive and equitable environment within the campus community. In conclusion, the International Women’s Day celebration at Heramba Chandra College was a resounding success, raising a spirit of dialogue and awareness. The Film Show, debate competition, and seminar collectively contributed to breaking down barriers and encouraging a more nuanced understanding of gender dynamics. Resource Persons: Dr. Nabanita Chakrabarti, Principal, Heramba Chandra College
